Town-Hall, Glasgow, 13th June, 1783

At a meeting of the MERCHANTS, TRALERS, and MANUFAC-TURERS of Glasgow, and the neighbourhood, held in confequence of an advertisement in the news-papers, Janes M'Grecox, E.qt. Dean of Guild of Glasgow, in the chair,

The meeting having taken into their ferious confidention the reforming by the Homourable the Hunfe of Commons, to fat as they relate to the tax to be imposed on promissory notes, or other notes whatever; and, though they cannot suppose it to be the intention of the Legislature to extend this tax to that species of notes called Bank Notes, payable to the bearer on demand, and sluged and circulated as cash by the banks and banking companies in Seutland; yet as fears and jealouses.

relate to the tax to me impore on promittory notes, or other notes whatfever; and, though they canhot hippofe it to be the intention of the Legistrue to extend this tax to that species of notes called dank Notes, payable to the bearer on demond, and signed and circulated as cash by the basks and banking companies in Seculand; yet as fears and isolousies, hereunisesfully astien in the minds of the people; that the words of the resolutions, if passed into a law, may be interpreted to tough the bank notes to the proposed tax, they came to the Following resolutions?

I. Resolved unanimously; "That the establishment of banks, and banking companies, in Seculand, who carry on bothers by stilling bank notes and discussing bills, and granting credit; on east accompate, has been of grant grantal public utility, and one of the chief causes of insprating
the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of
the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, and extending the trade and manufactures of this part of the agriculture, in the same of the care

II. Resolved unanimously. That the different sylverns on which Banking is generally carried on in England and Section, that a twenty fullilings, that there is from a million to estage observation, that a twenty fullilings, guinea, and five pound notes, are as necessary for the circulation of Sectiand, as ten, and twenty pounds on the their part of the kingdom.

III. Resolved unanimously, That it is the oninon, of this Meeting, that there is from a million to fifteen hundre

minufactures of Scotland.

V. Refolved unanimously, That the citizens of Glafgow have ever felt a becoming pride in being diffinguished as loyal to their Sovereign, and the warm friends of our happy Constitution, and have never opposed any former tax proposed by Government; yet, on this occasion, they feel themselves called upon as freenen and British subjects, publicly to express their disapprobation, and their firm determination to use every constitutional means in their power to appose the imposition of a tax which they cannot but consider as unequal, impolitic, grievous, controllive, and unjust.

of a tax which they cannot but consider as unequal, imponue, given an oppressive, and unjust.

6. Resolved unanimously, That it is the opinion of this Meeting, That this tax would produce universal distaistaction, and may be the occasion of creating in the minds of his Majesty's loyal subjects dissafted in the measures of Government. But if it be the determination of Parliament to impose this tax, the Meeting hope and trust that the wisdom and justice of Parliament will give an exemption from it to this part of the kingdom, for such reasonable time as to allow those engaged in the banking business to withdraw from it, without violence and convulsion to the country, and enable those engaged in agriculture, trade, and manusactures, to limit their operations to the circumscribed stuation which the Legislature shall be pleased to prescribe to them.

Signed, in presence of and by appointment of the Meeting, JAMES MACGREGOR.

The following is a Copy of the Orders issued by General Washington to his troops, on the arrival of the information that the Preliminaries of Peace had been agreed to between the States and this country.

CHATHAM, APRIL 23

THE Commander in Chief orders the cellution of holibities between the United States of America and the King of Great Britain, to be publicly proclaimed to-morrow at twelve o'clock, at the new building; and that the proclamation which will be communicated herewith, be read to morrow-evening at the head of every regiment and corps of the army; after which the chaplains, with the feveral brigades, will render thanks to Almighty God for all his mercies, particularly for his over-ruling the wrath of man to his own glory, and causing the rage of war to ceafe among the nations.

Although the proclamation before alluded to extends only to the prohibition of hostilities, and not to the annunciation of a general peace, yet it must afford the most rational and sincere a general peace, yet it must aftered the most rational and sincere fatisfaction to every benevolent mind, as it puts a period to a long and doubtful contest, stops the effusion of human blood, opens the prospect to a more splendid scene, and, like another morning star, promises the approach of a brighter day than hath hitherto illuminated the western hemisphere. On such a happy day, which is the harbinger of peace, a day which completes the eighthy year of the war it peace, a day which completes the eighthy year of the war it peace, a pletes the eighth year of the war, it would be ingratitude not to rejoice; it would be insensibility not to participate in the ge-

The Commander in Chief, far from endeavouring to stiffe the feelings of joy in his own bosom, offers his most cordial congratulations on the occasion to all the officers of every denomination; to all the troops of the United States in general; and in particular to those gallant and persevering men, who had resolved to defend the rights of their invaded country, so long as the war should continue. For these are the men who ought to be considered as the pride and boast of the American army; and who, crowned with well-carned laurels, may soon lraw from the field of glory to the more tranquil walks of civil life. While the Commander in Chief recollects the almost infinite variety of scenes through which we have past, with a mixture of pleasure, astonishment, and gratitude; while he contemplates the prospects before us with rapture, he cannot help wishing that all the brave men, of whatever condition they may be, who have shared the toils and dangers of effecting this rious revolution; of rescuing millions from the hard of oppression, and of laying the soundation of a great empire, might be impressed with a proper idea of the dignified part they have been called to act, under the smiles of Providence, on the stage of human affairs; for happy, thrice happy! shall they be pronounced hereafter who have contributed any, thing; who have performed the meanest office in erecting this stupenduous fabric of freedom and empire on the broad basis of independency; who have assisted in protecting the rights of human nature, and establishing an afylum for the poor and oppressed of all nations and religions. The glorious talk for which we first flew to arms being accomplished - the liberties of our country being fully acknowledged and firmly fecured by the smiles of heaven on the purity of our cause, and the honest exertions of a feeble people, determined to be free, against a powerful nation, dis-posed to oppress them; and the character of those who have perfevered through every extremity of hardfhip, fuffering, and danger, being immortalized by the illustrious appellation of the patriot army; nothing now remains but for the actors of this mighty scene to preserve a perfect unvarying consistency of character through the very last act, to close the drama with applause; and to retire from the military theatre with the same approbation of angels and men which have crowned all their virtuous actions. For this purpose, no disorder or licentious ness must be tolerated. Every considerate and well-disposed soldier must remember it will be absolutely necessary to wait with patience until peace shall be declared, or Congress shall be enabled to take proper measures for the security of the public stores, &c. As soon as these arrangements shall be made, the General is consident there will be no delay in distanging, with every mark of distinction and honour, all that enlisted for the war, who will then have faithfully performed their engagements with the public. The General has already interested himself in their behalf, and he thinks he need not repeat the affurance of his disposition to be useful to them on the present, and every other proper occasion. In the mean time, he is determined that no military neglects or excesses shall go unpunished while he retains the command of the army.

The Adjutant General will have such working parties detached, to affilt in making the preparations for a general rejoicing, as the Chief Engineer with the army may call for; and the Quarter-Master General will, without delay, procure such a number of discharges to be printed as will be sufficient for all the men enlifted for the war-he will please to apply to Head Quarters .- An extra ration of liquor to be iffued to every man to-morrow, to drink "Perpetual Peace and Happiness to the United States of America."

LONDON.

This day, at one o'clock, a meeting of the livery was held Guildhall, to take into consideration how far it might be proper to instruct their representatives in Parliament to oppose the tax on receipts from palling into a law, which tax must prove in the highest degree oppressive, injurious, and partial.

The Lord Mayor, with the Aldermen Bull, Sawbridge, Sir Watkin Lewes, Hart, Burnell, Kitchen, Turner, Gill, Sanderson, and the two Sheriffs, were present. The Lord Mayor having read the request for a Common Hall, Mr Smith, who led the business at the former meeting, began by commenting on the propriety of influcting their representatives on the present occasion, which he urged as indispensibly necessary

Alderman Turner then introduced the Instructions, which were unanimously adopted.-These being agreed to, the four members declared their intention to adapt their conduct to what the livery had conveyed to them as their fentiments, which they faid were agreeable to their own feelings.

Alderman Sanderson made an excellent speech, in which he recited the various difficulties that were likely to occur, should the present tax pass into a law; among others, bills from the country of only 5 l. value would be liable, from the number of indorfements on them, to pay 5s. to the tax.

Mr Alderman Picket alfo fpoke to the partiality and ruinous tendency of the bill, advising the Livery to be firm in using every constitutional exertion to oppose it. He remarked in partialar, that this offensive tax was in contemplation with the late Ministry, who durst not bring the same forward, though he was forry to find a Whig Ministry had adopted those measures a Tory administration dared not pursue,

The thanks of the Livery were given to the Lord Mayor, for his readiness in calling a Common hall, and to the four

City members for their attendance. It was ordered, that the resolutions of the Common-hall, should be published in all the news-papers, signed by the town

Last night there was a very numerous meeting of the merchants and traders in the City of Westminster, at Shakspea tavern, Covent Garden, to take into confideration the most effectual method of convincing the ministers how very prejudicial the putting a stamp on receipts would be to trade in general, when a variety of resolutions were agreed to respecting the fame, and a Committee appointed to carry them into execu-

The proposed tax on receipts is likely to create the most ferious opposition; it is well for the Ministers that it is objected to in time: if they are wife they will abandon it, and prepare fome other, which may better fuit the conflitution of the country and the temper of the people.

Yesterday arrived the mails from France, but bring nothing material, unless an order from the Stadtholder, that no more men be raifed for the navy, and for discharging such ships as may be found convenient. Their peace establishment is reported to be, fix thips of 60 guns, and 350 feamen; fix of 50, and 300 men; four frigates of 40, and 270 men; four of 36, and 230 men; four of 20, and 160 men; and fix floops mounting guns and 66 men. Saturday evening fome dispatches, which were to be sent to our negociators at Paris, were sent to Sir William Ashburst's, at East Barnet, to be sealed, he having the Great Seal during Lord Loughborough's absence,

It is faid, that after the prefent short adjournment, the whole of the proceedings of the pending negociation, respecting the commercial treaties between America, the States-General, and the Court of Great Britain, are to be submitted to the inspection of Parliament, official documents being in preparation that purpofe.

If the report be true, that a formidable combination of the Indian tribes threatens the States of America with a fierce and bloody war, our revolted Colonists will have sufficient cause to repent their refractory spirit; for it cannot be expected, that the new allies of the United States will incur the enormous expence of fending armaments to oppose the incursions of the Indian nations, without being put into possession of some tolera-bly secure means of indemnifying themselves. In fine, a temporary forbearance from hostilities must be purchased from the favage tribes (to whose furious attacks they will be perpetually obnoxious, after any thing like a fubmission) or the protection of France and Spain must be obtained by an irredeemable mortgage of the revenues of the United States. Thus we see the boafted independence of America in danger of being strangled in its very birth.

The spirited and exemplary conduct of the principal mer-chants of the opulent city of Bristol, will lead more towards opening the eyes of America, to her true commercial interefts, than all the farcical treaties of which our present rulers fo vainly boaft : Orders for goods to the amount of a million flerling were received about a fortnight ago at the above place, from Boston, Charlestown, and New-York; which the English merchants politely declined executing, declaring that they were now very fully employed in other channels, which they had every reason to approve of ; and therefore, could not think of embarking in any new commerce with America, at least for the prefent. Morn. Herald.

A letter from Philadelphia, received by a merchant in the city, has the following article: "Houses are fitting up in this city for the reception of foreign Ambassadors who are expected foon to arrive; one from Spain, one from Rusha, one from Sweden; and it is talked, that one will be fent from Vienna. and one from Berlin, but those are not fully determined on however, people begin to flock here from all parts, and rents rife amazingly."

By authentic letters from feveral officers of Sir Samuel Hood's squadron, we are affored his Royal Highness Prince William Henry, intends to visit the Havannah previous to his return to England, which it is expected will be about the middle of next month.

Yesterday the letters brought from Lisbon by the Hampden packet were delivered at the Post-office, they contain advi the arrival of the Maria, Primeera, at that place from the Eaft-Indies. By this veffel the East-India Company have received fome dispatches, which are dated the 19th of Decemb Salvadore, in the Brazils, giving an account of the fafe arrival of the fleet at that port, which failed from Portfmouth in September laft, and that they were to proceed from thence their passage the same forenoon. The Hampden has likewife brought advice of the arrival of the Mary, Cook, the Woodcock, Stevens, and many other vessels at Lisbon from London.

The following particulars relative to the landing of his Royal Highness Prince William, at Cape Francois, the capital of the French colony at Hispaniola, may not be unacceptable to

The British squadron, under the command of Lord Hood, were cuizing off Cape Francois at the time the news was received of the ratification of the peace, and the term of hostilities being expired in the West-Indian seas, the opportunity was taken of sending in his Royal Highness Prince William to see the city of the Cape. Accordingly he landed in the Barfleur's barge on the 5th of April, attended by Captain Merrick and Lieutenant Maude of the royal navy, and was received by Monfieur de Bellecombe, the Governor, who had no previous notice of the visit. with every possible honour and distinction the shortness of the time would allow of. A field officer's guard was immediately mounted on his Royal Highness, and he was requested by Mons. de Bellecombe to give a parole for the day after dinner, which was private. The General offi-cers of the French and Spanish army had the honour of paying their respects to the Prince; they were followed by the of officers of the regiments in garrison, according to their feniority, by the royal artillery, the corps of engineers, the offi-cers of the navy, the clergy, and the law, in fuccessionar His Royal Highness was then conducted to the arienal by Mons. de Bellecombe, Don Galvez, the Spanish General, and the officers of diffinction of both armies. The ftreets through which he paffed were lined with troops, and on his enterior the park of artillery, adjoining to the arfenal, he was faluted with 21 guns. His Royal Highness then visited the different apartments of the arfenal, and being afterwards conducted to a convenient fituation, the whole garrison, confilting of near feren thousand men, marched in review before him, paying him the military honours as they passed. When the review was over-the Prince was conducted in Mons. de Bellecombe's carrage to the head quarters of the Spanish army, about thr from the city, from whence he had an extensive prospect of the beautiful and rich plain of the Cape, and where he received the compliments of as many of the Spanish officers as the shortness of the time would allow of being affembled together. In the evening his Royal Highness returned to the city, where a play had been ordered for his entertainment, and upo the theatre he was received, by a most brilliant audience, with loud and repeated applause; the curtain was immediately drawn up, and a person advancing upon the stage; pronounced a very elegant compliment in verse, addressed to the Prince. When the play was ended his Royal Highness returned to the Government house, where a most superb supper was prepared, at which were present all the ladies of distinction, and every perfon of rank in the city. The entertainments of the eve concluded with a magnificent ball, at which his Royal Highness danced with the Governor's lady, the lady of Don Galyez, and the Viscountess de Fontanges.

In the morning, at day-light, the garrifon being under arms to line the streets, and the principal officers and persons of distinction being assembled at the Government-house, his Royal Highness was conducted to the water side, attended by Monday de Dellecombe, Don Gaivez, and all the General offices of At fix o'clock he entered his barge to return of board the Barfleur, and upon his leaving the shore he was faluted with 21 guns. His Royal Highness was dreffed in his uniform as a Midshipman, and wore the enligns of the orders of the Garter and Thiftle; his Princely and affable deportment charmed every body who approached him, and whenever he appeared in pa-

Anecdate of Dan Galvez, the Spanish General.—Some time towards the latter end of last year, a rebellion broke out in the district of the Natches, in the province of Louisiana. The rebellion was quelled, and the chiefs of the revolters being taken, were brought to New Orleans, where they were tried by a councit of war, and condemned to death: in the number were five Englishmen; and Don Galvez, as Governor-General of Loui-Englishmen; and Lon Garvez, as Governor-General of Loui-fass, having received their fentence for his confirmation, a few days before Prince William landed at Cape Francois, thought he could not pay his Royal Highness a more acceptable compliment, than to make him a present of the forfeited lives of his countrymen; accordingly, with a manner that added much to the importance of the gift, he put into the Prince's hands a full

We were this day favoured by a correspondent with the speech of Governor Ellorr to the garrison of Gibraltar, upon his being invested with the order of the Bath, 23d April last, being St George's day,

Gentlemen,
I HAVE affembled you this day, in order that the officers and foldiers may receive, in the most public manner, an authentic declaration transmitted to me by the Secretary of State, expressing the high sense his Majesty entertains of your meritorious conduct in the desence of this garrison.

The King's satisfaction on this event was soon divulged to all the world, by his most gracious speech to both Houses of Parliament. The House of Lords and the House of Commons not only made the suitable professions in their respective addresses to the Throne, but have severally enjoined me to communicate their unanimous thanks by the following resolutions:—

As a further proof how just your title is to such flattering distinctions, rest affured, from undoubted authority, that the nations of Europe, and other parts, are struck with admiration of your gallant behaviour. Even our late resolute and determined antagonists do not scruple to bestow commendations due to such valour and perseverance. I now most warmly congratulate with you on these united and brilliant testimonies of approbation.

approbation.
